

MEMBERSHIP

Contemporary Applied Arts is a registered charity (No. 235914) set up to champion and promote British craftspeople. Our gallery is the premier exhibition and retail venue for the appreciation, education and purchase of British craft.

Through its membership programme, CAA offers selected UK-based crafts professionals the opportunity to exhibit and sell their work through an established central London venue, and become part of a network of highly respected and talented makers.

Eligibility

To be eligible for CAA membership you must be a professional craftsperson living and working in the UK (for tax purposes), and working in one of the following disciplines: ceramics, furniture, glass, jewellery, metal, paper, textiles, wood. CAA does not support fine art, photography or design.

Applicants must be formally trained and skilled in their field. CAA does not represent students or those that produce work on an amateur basis. Members of CAA must be actively producing work for exhibition and/or sale.

Membership benefits

All Members will:

- Be represented through the gallery space (for retail sale and/or in special exhibitions) as appropriate
- Be permanently represented on the website
- Be represented through promotional material displayed within the venue
- Receive regular newsletters and exhibition leaflets from CAA
- Receive invitations to private views and other CAA events

All Members have the opportunity to:

- Show new bodies of work/profiles of work within the gallery
- Give and attend artists talks and other 'learning' events
- Submit proposals for exhibitions and/or curate shows

New Members have the opportunity to:

- Be featured in an annual exhibition showcase for new Members.

All Members are encouraged to attend the Annual General Meeting at which they can vote to elect the Board of Trustees.

On selection, all Members will receive a copy of the CAA Membership Policy, which works as a contract to outline what Members can expect from CAA as a membership organisation, and in turn, what CAA can expect from its Members.

Fee

Membership is £95 per year. Payment for membership must be made by standing order or direct debit to CAA.

Selection process

Selection of members is by a panel of professionals made up of six senior CAA maker members and two CAA employees. There are two stages to the process 1) selection by images, 2) selection by actual work. Applicants are only selected at the first stage in exceptional circumstances, where the panel is sufficiently aware of the maker's practice. In some cases, the panel may recommend that the applicant re-applies at a later date and this will be clearly indicated in correspondence.

All applications are assessed on the criteria outlined below. Applicants will be informed of the outcome of the first stage within 28 days of the deadline date. Applicants should keep in mind that if they successfully go through to the second stage, they will be asked to submit actual work at relatively short notice.

The panel's decision is final. Contemporary Applied Arts does not give individual feedback to unsuccessful applicants.

Selection criteria

Knowledge of material	The maker should demonstrate in-depth knowledge of, sensitivity to and appreciation of the material that they work with.
Skill in technique	The maker should demonstrate that they have fully mastered the techniques used, and be a specialist within their field.
Quality of work	The work must show integrity, be resolved and complete, and be executed to an exceptional standard. The finish of the pieces must prompt an interest into the craft techniques used.
Originality of work	The maker must demonstrate innovation, either through a ground-breaking method or using an existing method in a new way. The work must be truly individual and not derivative of another.
Strong personal voice/identity	The work must demonstrate creativity and a consistency in quality throughout all pieces of work, and be clearly identifiable as individual of the maker.
Knowledge of cultural context and techniques	The processes used and finished work must be well-researched, and the maker must demonstrate potential for development/ the ability to develop further within the field.
Suitability	The panel must feel that the work clearly fits within the remit of CAA, and can be effectively represented through the organisation's activities.

How to apply

Please send your application by email to reach CAA by 15 APRIL. Applications are reviewed in May/June. No applications will be reviewed outside of these times.

Before sending your application, you are strongly advised to visit the venue and/or website to understand the level of work required for CAA. Please also ensure that you are eligible for membership (see Eligibility above).

You must include the following in your application:

1. Completed application form

Provide short descriptions, dimensions and artist's prices for the pieces you are submitting in images (see below). The artist's price is the trade or cost price (price before gallery mark-up).

2. Recent CV

Your CV should include the following headings (where applicable):

Personal details, Stockists, Publications/Articles/Press, Education/Qualifications, Exhibitions, Commissions/Public Collections, Awards, Employment

3. Artist's statement

Provide a description (300 words maximum) of your work, inspirations and motivations

4. Technical notes

Provide a description (150 words maximum) of the processes and techniques used

5. 8 digital images

Your images should be of high quality (ideally 300dpi), in jpeg or tiff format. Images may be emailed as file attachments. If your attachment size exceeds 5MB in total, please send your images in multiple emails to avoid bouncebacks or use a file transfer service such as Dropbox or Wetransfer.com. Always ensure the files are clearly labelled with your name and number each digital image that you send with the corresponding number on your application form. Do not send more images than those detailed on the form.

6. £25 administration fee

An administration fee of £25 is payable with each application and is non-refundable. If you are reapplying under the recommendation of CAA, you do not need to pay the administration fee again (enclose a copy of the letter). Please make your payment over the phone (020 7620 0086) by debit or credit card during our opening hours or send a cheque by post to CAA, Membership Applications, 89 Southwark Street, London SE1 0HX. Please make cheques payable to 'Contemporary Applied Arts'. Payments must reach us before the application deadline.

Please DO NOT send any additional information unless specifically requested from CAA.
